

Grant Guidelines Alaska Mining Impacts and Prevention Fund

The Alaska Mining Impacts and Prevention Fund supports advocacy efforts to address impacts from hardrock mining and associated activities in Alaska. Applicants applying to address a specific mining issue should consider applying, but preference will be given to projects that address statewide hardrock mining impacts holistically. Alaska Mining Impacts and Prevention grants range from $5,000 - $20,000.

Applicants for Alaska Mining Impacts and Prevention grants must meet the following criteria:

- Be a non-profit (or equivalent) organization engaged in Alaska hardrock mining advocacy
- Be an active participant in the Alaska Mining Impacts Network
- Be based in Alaska, or have an Alaska-based program
- If a current ACF grantee, be in good standing with required grant reports

Alaska Mining Impacts and Prevention grants support activities that result in:

- Prevention or reduction of impacts from hardrock mining and associated activities
- More favorable laws and policies related to hardrock mining
- Stronger regulation of hardrock mining policies and enforcement of laws
- Stronger cultural or environmental protections in place

Alaska Mining Impacts and Prevention grants will support:

- Convenings for strategy development, coalition fostering, and further relationship building
- Legal support
- Contractor services
- Scientific or technical support
- Community organizing, mobilization, and/or Grassroots advocacy
- Grasstops advocacy
- Communications & outreach
- Up to 15% administrative fee

The following activities are not eligible for Alaska Mining Impacts and Prevention Fund grant

- Education programs or scholarships
- Equipment and land acquisition
- Capital campaigns
- Literary and/or film projects
- Operating expenses, including existing staff salaries, above the 15% administrative fee

Application Process

Applicants who are interested in applying must reach out to AKMIN Coordinator Dan Cannon at dcannon@alaskaconservation.org. Applications are accepted on a rolling basis. Applicants can expect a final decision within 30 business days of their submission.
